Viessmann Generations Group acquires Do Investment – renaming to FGTC Investment emphasizes commitment to long-term value creation

The diversified forestry and agriculture projects and value-driven investment direction of the securities institution directly contribute to Viessmann's purpose to co-create living spaces for generations to come.

October 16, 2024 – The Viessmann Generations Group (“Viessmann”), a purpose-driven family company with a heritage of 107 years, announces the acquisition of Do Investment, a prestigious securities institution based in Munich. Upon completion of the acquisition, Do Investment was renamed FGTC Investment. The acronym "FGTC" – For Generations To Come – reflects the commitment to managing wealth across generations and promoting sustainable value creation, in line with Viessmann's purpose to co-create living spaces for generations to come.

FGTC Investment, previously operated under the name Do Investment by the Dornier family, specializes in advising medium-sized family businesses, foundations, and institutions. In addition to financial portfolio management, the focus is on diversified agricultural and forestry investments in Europe and South America. These sectors are crucial for the reduction and storage of CO<sub>2</sub>, thus making a significant contribution to climate protection.

Max Viessmann, CEO of Viessmann Generations Group: “A central component of Viessmann's heritage of over 100 years is the principle of co-creation. The acquisition of Do Investment is an entrepreneurial decision based on shared values and a common vision to make a positive impact across generations. With FGTC Investment, we are establishing a platform that enables collaboration with other family businesses to make targeted agricultural and forestry investments, fostering a sustainable future for generations to come.”

The management of FGTC Investment emphasizes that clients will continue to receive the reliability and long-term focus they expect from the company.
